opportunities for ongoing intergovernmental coordination and collaboration with other local organization.

Policies

- All local governments should consider various public engagement methods outside of traditional scheduled meetings such as surveys, livestreaming meetings, and social media.
- Public meetings should be held in various public locations.
- Officials should enlist nonprofits, churches, and community organizations to assist in providing services to the public.
- Lowndes County and the Cities could consider forming a unified government to reduce competition and service duplication.

Funding opportunities that should be considered

Funding opportunities do not explicitly exist for intergovernmental coordination efforts. Local governments should seek partnerships that share the costs of planning and implementation.
